Claim Objections

Claim 16 is objected to under 37 CFR 1.75(c), as being of improper dependent form for failing to further limit the subject matter of a previous claim. Applicant is required to cancel the claim(s), or amend the claim(s) to place the claim(s) in proper dependent form, or rewrite the claim(s) in independent form. It is not clear how claim 16 limits the Fischer-Tropsch fuel composition of independent claim 1.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-24 and 31-38 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Davis et al (5,378,348).

Davis et al ["Davis"] disclose the production of middle distillates useful as diesel or jet fuels from a Fischer-Tropsch hydrocarbon synthesis process. Davis teaches that the Fischer-Tropsch process can produce a wide variety of materials depending upon the catalyst and process conditions. Davis teaches that a typical product slate is set forth in Table A in column 2 which can vary by $\pm 10\%$ for each fraction. As set forth in Table A, the initial boiling point (IBP) to 320°F fraction is present in 13 wt.%, the 320-500°F fraction is present in 23 wt.%, the 500-700°F fraction is present in 19 wt.%, the 700-

Art Unit: 1764

1050°F fraction is present in 34 wt.%, and the 1050°F to final boiling point fraction is present in 11 wt.%. The examiner is of the position that the typical product slate from Fischer-Tropsch process liquids set forth in Table A clearly meets the limitations of the Fischer-Tropsch derived fuel compositions having the boiling point distribution set forth in the above rejected claims. The other properties set forth in the claims such as cloud point, kinematic viscosity and sulfur content of the Fischer-Tropsch derived fuel compositions which are not taught by Davis are assumed to be the same or similar unless demonstrated otherwise.

Allowable Subject Matter

Process claims 25-30, which blend together the high boiling fraction and the low boiling fraction whereby the Fischer-Tropsch derived transportation fuel composition is characterized by a bi-modal boiling range, are allowed over the prior art references of record.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicants' disclosure.
